HOMESTEAD BUILDING SYSTEMS, INC. TO EMPLOY 40-45 AT FORMER TIMBER TRUSS FACILITY

Orange County, VA – Orange County announced today that Homestead Building Systems, Inc. (HBS), has acquired the former Timber Truss facility. Founded in 1996 by Mr. David Baird of Bristow, Virginia, Homestead Building Systems, Inc. specializes in engineering, manufacturing, and delivering of engineered wood products for the residential and commercial building industry. Not only does HBS provide superior engineered wood products, they also inventory a full line of Dimensional lumber, Rimboard, Cornice, Hangers, and OSB sheathing. The engineered wood products are designed to be environmentally friendly and promote sustainability. In addition, HBS strives to recycle or reuse all of the wood products in their processing.

"Our goal is to move all of the manufacturing to the former Timber Truss facility as soon as possible. We are very excited about setting up operations in the new facility and look forward to being a part of the Orange County business community. We want to be a god neighbor and a good business partner," said David Baird. HBS plans to be operational at the end of 2013 or early 2014 with approximately 40-45 employees.

S. Teel Goodwin, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors, stated that he is, "thrilled to welcome Homestead Building Systems, Inc. to the Orange County business community and looks forward to a productive future for all involved."
